Riesling Kabinett J.B. Becker 'Berg Bildstock', 2016, Rheingau, Germany 72

In his iconic bowler hat and handle bar mustache, this kooky old German has been making his rieslings for over four decades now with no concern for the trends and perceptions of the times. As a result, Becker's Rieslings are unmistakable...dry, taut and firm with a minerality that reminds you more of Chablis than of German Riesling. The wine sparks with acidity and has just enough sweetness to make it impossible not to take another sip.

Valdigué, Cruse Wine Co., 2017, Napa Valley, California 90

The Valdigué grape is a fascinating part of Napa's history. For most of the twentieth century it was known as "Napa Gamay," as it was incorrectly thought to be identical to Beaujolais' prized grape. But the grape fell out of fashion during the state's "Cab Craze" and has been mostly ripped out. In fact, 950 acres stood in Napa County in 1973, and as of 2015 just 21 remain.

There are just a handful of producers making wine from this rare and charming grape and none more successfully than Michael Cruse. He is one of Cali's most exciting young winemakers...talented, original and very influential to a new generation of winemakers and wine drinkers.

His valdiguie just happens to be my perfect warm weather red. It's spicy, with berries and rose petals all swirling around and just enough tannin to let you know it means business.
